

Missouri's Present Hard Road System

Look at the Dis-connected Sections of Improved Highways.

Unless the Bond Amendment No. 6 is Adopted on Nov. 2 the Above Map Will Represent the System of 365-Day Roads for Many Years to Come.

The people of Missouri have been talking good roads and voting bonds and applying Federal Aid during the past three years to such an extent that many people might believe from all this publicity that we were soon to have a wonderful system of hard-surfaced highways. The facts are the above map represents the roads on which Federal Aid has been allowed and when these roads are built, unless more Federal Aid is available or the $60,000,000 road bond amendment passes, they will be about all of the real good roads that Missouri will have for many years.

What stronger argument could be offered in support of Amendment No. 6 which will connect all of these links into a complete system and at the same time reimburse any county or subdivision for what they have expended on these sections of the state road.

VOTE FOR Amendment No. 6.

FARMERS SHOULD VOTE GOOD ROADS

Because the state and federal governments will build two hard surfaced roads across his county and he will not pay one dime of tax more than he is now paying.

Because the state auto fees will pay the entire cost of the roads.

Because if he lives on a state road he can deliver his farm produce to market any day in the year.

Because if he does not live on or near a state road he and his neighbors or his county can build good roads to connect with these state roads and then have a connected system of hard roads to all of the main markets in his section of the state.

Because the value of a hard road depends on its connections and the state bond issue means a complete system.

Because there are 64 counties in Missouri where at the present time no road bonds have been voted nor any finances provided for the construction of hard surfaced roads. When the $60,000,000 bond issue is available state roads will be built in each of these counties, and therefore they will be assured of two roads across their county without any cost except their auto fees at the present rate.

Because good roads in every community improve the social, religious and education advantages of the people in that community.

Because every farmer in Missouri wants to give his wife and children as good surroundings and as many advantages as those of his friends in other counties and states where hard roads have been built or are being built. Because hard roads save time on the road, save transportation cost to and from markets, enable the farmer to market his products any day in the year, save money in the repairs and depreciation of trucks, motor cars and all kinds of vehicles.

Because every state in the union is now building hard roads or getting ready to do so. If Missouri wants to keep in its place with the progressive, prosperous States of the Union, she must do the same thing. It is not enough that 25 or 30 counties are building hard roads. To be of real service to the people the State should have a complete system connecting all sections of the state.

Because bad roads are expensive, while good roads are money makers and money savers.

Because a complete State system of hard roads will link together every community in Missouri and allow her people to meet and mingle and be friends, whereas, with bad roads the people are held apart.

Because hard roads are now needed to carry the modern highway traffic.

Because farms are more desirable on hard roads, bring better prices, and make their families more contented and prosperous.

Because dairy farming and poultry raising on farms by hard roads are money makers, while the same farm on a dirt road would not be so desirable.

Because hard roads mean better rural mail service, better schools, and markets closer to the farm. And principally because

WELL DONE (?) THOU GOOD AND FAITHFUL SERVANTS

Very few of us who have not heard of the parable of the talents, where a certain man who journeyed into another land, but before going he called three servants to him and gave them talents to use in his absence.

Hayti is a town of 1507 souls; no manufacturer, large or small could want better shipping facilities, no farmer could want better land than that which lies around Hayti. In fact, everything is in favor of making a booming, hustling town of Hayti. We have a depot that would do credit to a city of 50,000 inhabitants. But for some reason or lack of reason, we have continued to do nothing—gaining nothing, seeking nothing—a blind man, who sits down and looks to the world for support.

Several years ago a number of people with enough pep and push started a little town in practically a mud puddle. Nothing daunted the courage of this people, difficulty after difficulty was overcome and today a city of 8 thousand souls testify to the undying get up and persistence of Old Brother Blythe and his neighbors.

It should be understood that this is not in the nature of a knock at our town or a bouquet for any neighboring town, but it is a fact that those who should have pushed Hayti to the front have shamefully failed and it is a fact that we are doing nothing whatever to make this the metropolis of Southeast Missouri.

This is not a county seat, it is true, nor does Hayti have to be a county seat to grow and expand—but Hayti does have to have enough citizens to forget self or rather get wise to the fact that as long as Hayti remains a village they will remain village inhabitants. Every time a man does something for his town, he furthers his own interests, it is impossible to do otherwise. And why we have continued to sit idle and let things rock along is more than we are able to understand.

Hayti needs another hotel. It needs factory after factory, it needs more store and business houses, it needs better streets, it needs its own light and power plant, and it needs a good waterworks system. But before it will get all these things it citizens must awaken to the fact that no town will of itself grow, somebody has to get out and do a little pushing, we can't all ride and as long as never make an effort to better conditions we will remain what we are—just a little weed overrun town.

There seems to be no let up in this life of wearisome toil. Now an unfeeling exchange reminds us that all summer long we've been emptying the pan under the ice box, and right on its heels comes a long winter of carting out ashes from the furnace.
